

New-York 1767-1768 Newspaper Finding Aid

The two bound volumes represent near-consecutive runs of two of colonial New York's leading newspapers – John Holt's New-York Journal; or, the General Advertiser, and James Parker's New-York Gazette; or, the Weekly Post-Boy. As well as the newspapers, there are also supplements and extras. The newspapers and all the supplements are interfiled and bound in chronological order.

The chronological arrangement allows a view of the political differences in the early years of the developing antagonism between the American colonies and the mother country. Both treat the major issues of the day, but the soon-to-be Loyalists had much more of a voice in Holt's more conservative paper, while Parker's paper becomes increasingly pro-American.
